PENDAHULUAN

Modul ini membahas suatu teknik dalam memahami bacaan dalam bahasa Inggris dan terbagi ke dalam empat Kegiatan Belajar yaitu memahami sinonim dan antonim, memahami homonim, mengenali dan memahami hyponym dan yang terakhir adalah menafsirkan kata-kata yang belum diketahui maknanya.

Ketika kita membaca sebuah teks dalam bahasa Inggris, kadang-kadang kita tidak mendapatkan kepuasan dengan definisi yang terdapat dalam kamus. Kita bertanya pada diri kita sendiri adakah kata lain yang secara substansial memiliki arti yang sama yang dapat menggantikan kata yang kita inginkan, sehingga kita mendapat kepuasan akan ide/gagasan yang dimaksud oleh penulis karya /tulisan tersebut.

Latihan-latihan yang ada dalam modul ini membantu Anda dalam mencari kata-kata lain yang memiliki substansi yang sama dengan kata yang terdapat dalam sebuah teks. Dengan demikian perbendaharaan kata yang akan Anda punyai semakin banyak. Latihan-latihan yang terdapat dalam modul ini diadopsi dari buku yang ditulis oleh LA. Hill, The Key To English Vocabulary yang diterbitkan oleh THE MACMILLAN COMPANY, dan Vocabulary Test and Exercises for Overseas Students karangan LA. Hill and R.D.S. FIELDEN.

Setelah mempelajari modul ini, Anda diharapkan dapat memiliki strategi untuk memahami suatu teks bacaan dengan tepat.

Setelah mempelajari modul ini Anda diharapkan dapat:

- a. memahami arti synonym dan antonym.
- b. menggunakan synonym dan antonym dalam kalimat

KEGIATAN BELAJAR 1*Synonyms dan Antonyms

Yang dimaksud dengan synonym adalah kata-kata yang secara garis besar memiliki arti yang sama. Sedangkan yang dimaksud dengan antonym adalah kata-kata yang secara garis besar memiliki arti yang berlawanan. Dalam mengetahui persamaan dan perbedaan antar kata-kata yang ada dalam teks, Anda diharapkan memiliki perbendaharaan kata yang banyak. Dengan demikian Anda akan mendapat kemudahan dalam memahami arti kata yang dimaksud.

Contoh:

Sinonim 1. Absent = Away

- * He is going to be absent for a few days.
- * He is going to be away for a few days.

2. Absolutely = Entirely

- * You are absolutely right.
- * You are entirely right.

Antonim 1. 1. Handsome X Ugly

- * Ricky Martin is handsome but Seal is ugly.

2. General X Specific

- * She needs a general explanation but I need a specific one.

Untuk mengetahui apakah Anda memahami apa yang dimaksud dengan synonym dan antonym, kerjakanlah latihan-latihan berikut ini.

A SYNONYM*Exercise 1

Pilihlah synonym dari kata-kata yang dicetak miring dengan memberi tanda silang pada huruf A, B, C, atau D.

Bali is [1] famous for its beauty, and many people do no feel satisfied until they visit the beautiful island themselves. One thing that the visitors find [2] immediately is that life on the island is very peaceful, that is, they can have a good rest while they are there. The air is fresh and [3] healthful which is good for their health.

Balinese sculptors are very [4] skillful. Their skill can be seen in the statues that they produce. And the Balinese painters like to work with colors. Many visitors to the island [5] buy the statues and the colorful paintings to take home as souvenirs.

I have been hoping that I will be able to visit the island sometime, I am more hopeful now because I have saved some money for the [6] trip. I have no doubt that I will enjoy the trip, but I am doubtful that I can take it this year. I may be able to take it next year but meanwhile I will have to take good care of the money because I am not careful I may [7] finish it before then. I do not mean that I will [8] waste it because I'm not usually wasteful with money. I am [9] afraid that I may use it to buy wasteful things, I will still be thinking about Bali. When I asked my father what he thought about it, he was thoughtful for a moment, but then he gave one of his respectful smiles, which meant, I [10] understood, that I might go. He even [11] offered to pay off the cost, if I was successful in my [12] examination. So I will have to work hard to make it a [13] success. I was thankful for his offer, and I said, "Thank you, Father".

American children may (1) go into any government high schools without paying for anything. Going to school is required until the age of fifteen. They know that they can (2) prosper by studying hard. They may (3) miss in one subject or two, but they never give up trying harder; they go on doing their lessons as well as they can.

High school students like sports very much. They (4) like playing many kinds of games. The most popular (5) game at the beginning of the school year is football. Every school has at least one (6) squad. Practicing football is done after school; and the games are (7) commonly played on Saturday afternoon. The students love (8) viewing them and shouting at their teams to try harder. Some schools (9) instruct their students swimming. Their swimming pools are usually (10) big, and the water is clean and blue. They make swimming popular in the hot months.

I had been thinking of becoming a biographer until I [1] substituted my mind. I seemed to have been influenced by my uncle who was a successful writer then.

Had I been a biographer, I would have needed to spend a lot of time [2] watching the person whose life story I intended to write. If I wanted to get to know him [3] intimately, only talking to him in different situations would not be [4] adequate. I might have had to write letters to his friends asking them for [5] data. Besides, I would have needed to meet the people to get information about him as a [6] kid and about his family. These people to be visited might still live in his [7] hometown; I might have had to go there, too. I ought to have been [8] common with everything about him before I started writing. Of course I should have used my [9] fantasy to complete the biography then. All this [10] showed to be interesting.

Dear Editor,

I read with [1] interest the article on American families. In [2] general I agree with it. But there are some [3] important things it left out. It didn't tell the reader much about the life of a househusband. It's not an [4] easy life. I know, because I'm now a househusband myself. A househusband has to [5] change many of his ideas and his ways.

First of all, he has to change the [6] way he thinks about time. Before I was a househusband, I worked for The New York Times. I was a reporter and time was very important. We had to finish our articles [7] quickly and give them to the editor. Everyone was always in [8] hurry. This is the way many others men work, [9] too. Businessmen, lawyers, bankers, doctors: they all have to work quickly.

People talk a lot about househusbands these days. Usually they [10] talk about the housework, about cooking, cleaning and shopping. But for me, these are the easiest things to [11] learn. It is much harder to change the way you think about time. It is [12] hard to change the way you act with your necessary if you want to be a happy househusband.

Jane had wanted to attend this party and, to her [1] joy, Bobby invited her to go there. It was held only once a year at the [2] biggest and the most luxurious hotel in her town. She had prepared everything for the party. She [3] bought herself a [4] beautiful, long evening dress and had her hair done and arranged in such a way that it was just right for this [5] special evening. She was a little [6] excited waiting for Bobby. He said the invitation was for 9.00 p.m. She had been ready since 8.30 p.m. for it was a fifteen-minute ride to the hotel. Now it was 8.35. She was wondering whatever might happened to Bobby, who happened to live in another town. She kept on looking at her watch 8.40 — 8.45 — 8.55. Then she became very uneasy. It was [7] strange for Bobby to be late. He was [8] usually on time. Even if Bobby arrived, they would still be late to the party. She grew [9] impatient and she walked nervously to the window and looked at the street several times, hoping Bobby might arrive at any minutes. It was no use waiting for him any longer for it was nearly 11.00 o'clock. She began to weep and tears were falling down her face because she was angry and [10] disappointed.

A computer is, in a [1] complicated sense, a counting machine because it can add, subtract, multiply and divide.

It is like our brain [2] except that a computer can work much faster and the problem it solves depend on the information given to it by man. It is sometimes called a memory machine since it also [3] keeps the information and provides it when it is needed.

Computers were in fact [4] invented a long time ago. Chinese or Japanese merchants have been using a tool to [5] add which is called “abacus”, or in Indonesian “cipoa”. These people can add figures by moving the wooden balls of the abacus with their fingers. Another example of a memory computer is the counting machine found in stores, banks, and [6] big offices.

It was Professor Charles Babbage of Cambridge, England, who [7] first planned a large computer. He designed several, but they were too large and [8] heavy. When he died in 1871, he had not completed any of them.

Dr. Herman Hollerith built the first electric computer. He used Babbage's idea and added the [9] use of electricity. He gathered and arranged all the information in mathematical symbols and wrote them on cards. He stored them in the machine. The use of electricity enabled the machine to give the result [10] rapidly.

Kartini and the date of her birth, April 21, will always be [1] remembered, especially by the women of Indonesia, because of the contribution she made to the struggle for [2] better education and more rights for women.

Kartini's father, a Regent of Jepara, Central Java, had [3] modern ideas on education. He sent his daughters to a Dutch [4] elementary school, although according to the Javanese tradition girls were not even allowed to go out of the house at the time.

Kartini was a [5] clever student. After finishing the elementary school, she wanted to continue her studies at a higher school. She also dreamed of helping other women so that they could have the [6] same rights as men. At that time women were often treated as men's slaves. They had to obey theirs fathers, and after they married, their husband.

Because of [7] strong criticism from the other Regents' families, Kartini's father did not [8] allow her to continue her studies. At the age of 12 according to the tradition at that period she had to [9] remain in the house until she got married. However, she continued to struggle to realize her dreams. She asked for a scholarship to study in Holland. The tradition however was so strong that she was not [10] able to continue her studies.

Hollywood heartthrob Leonardo DiCaprio has thrown his weight behind a campaign to [1] abandon fossil fuels and encourage a switch to environmentally [2] friendly energy sources.

Michael Douglas [5] appealed to British lawmakers for help in persuading the United States and Russia to [6] reduce stockpiles of nuclear weapons.

“British is uniquely placed to [7] assume a leadership role,” Douglas told the Parliamentary Group of Nonproliferation and Global Security this week. “Given the impasse between the United States and Russia it is time for another nuclear power to take the initiative.”

The actor said his [8] interest in nuclear disarmament began with his role in 1979 film The China Syndrome, about a nuclear power plant [9] accident. Three weeks after the movie’s [10] release, the accident at the Pennsylvania nuclear power plant Three Mile Island occurred.

Think it over

Today, supermarkets are found in almost [1] each city in the world. But the first supermarket was opened only fifty years ago. It was opened in New York by a man [2] called Michael Cullen.

A supermarket is different from other types of [3] stores in several ways. In supermarkets, good are placed on open shelves. The [4] buyers choose what they want and take them to the check-out counter. This means that fewer [5] assistants are required than in other stores.

The way products are displayed is another difference between supermarket and many other types of stores. For example, in supermarkets, there is usually a display of small [6] economical items just in front of the check-out counter: candies, chocolate, magazines, cheap books and so on. Why are they there?

Most customers who go to a supermarket [7] purchase from a shopping list. They know [8] precisely what they need to buy. They shop according to a plan. By the time she or he reaches the check-out counter, the customer is feeling [9] delighted and relaxed because the task of shopping is finished. In this happy mood, the customer sees an attractive display of inexpensive goods that were not on her shopping list. Now she feels like buying something just for her own [10] gratification and enjoyment.

America's first space woman has already left the rest of the world behind

Sally Ride, America's [1] first spacewoman, doesn't look very different from a lot of other American professional women. She is attractive, with curly brown hair, dark brown eyes, and [2] bright smile. She likes to dress simply; she wears [3] comfortable but colourful clothes, likes many people from California. But in 1983 Sally Ride became America's first woman astronaut. She was one of five astronauts on the space shuttle Challenger, which completed [4] a successful six-day voyage in space in June 1983. What makes a woman want to go into space?

Sally Ride grew up in Los Angeles, California. Her father is a professor at Santa Monica College, and her mother is a housewife. At Westlake High School for Girls, she was both [5] an excellent student and tennis player. Today, she still looks like a sportswoman.

People who know her say she is intelligent and [6] confident. She also thinks deeply about things. But she is not always [7] serious. She is fun and enjoys humour, but she is in a [8] hurry to get on to more important things.

When NASA decided to [9] put a woman into space, none of Sally's friends were surprised that they chose Sally. So when the space shuttle Challenger carried her on her first mission into space, Sally did what she had often done before; she [10] left the world behind.

Dear Jane,

We were so glad to get your letter. Ted wasn't [1] sure what to do. He was so worried about your father. I told him he really didn't need to [2] worry about me and Elena. So he was all [3] ready to go to Scotland. But your letter made us feel better. It really doesn't sound too [4] serious. Now maybe Ted will wait and see. If your father is still in the hospital in a few weeks, then he'll go.

You can tell your parents that the house in Rosebuds is [5] fine. We go there [6] often to make sure everything is okay. Dr. Hamilton says your father shouldn't worry about his patients. They all [7] ask about him. Dr. Hamilton says he will take [8] good care of them, and I am sure he will. Also, tell your mother that all the pets are very [9] healthy. But the bird doesn't sing anymore. I think it misses your mother.

Our life is very [10] different now. It's not easy having a [11] little baby in the house! Elena often wakes up at night, so I didn't [12] sleep much. Then, all day long it seems there is always something to do. Sometimes I get very, very [13] tired. Then I [14] remember my own mother, with five children. How did she do it? In those days women didn't get much [15] help from their husbands. My father was [16] wonderful person in many ways. But I don't think he ever wash a dish in his life.

Give my love to your parents. Ted also sends his love, and Elena, too.

Much love,

Maria.
